

AURANGABAD – THE TOURISM CAPITAL OF MAHARASHTRA

The ancient city of Aurangabad is located in the district of the same name in the state of Maharashtra. The city gets its name from Emperor Aurangzeb, the last free Mughal Emperor of India. The city is also referred to as the City of Gates, thanks to the 52 gates that are present within the city. Aurangabad is a major tourist destination known for the various historical monuments present in its vicinity. The most prominent of these are the famous caves of Ajanta and Ellora, Bibi Ka Maqbara, which has been recognized as a World Heritage site by UNESCO, Salim Ali Lake and Bird Sanctuary, Panchakki, and Aurangabad Caves.

AURANGABAD RAILWAY STATION

The Aurangabad railway station falls under the Nanded division of South Central Railway Zone of Indian Railways. The station is one of the most important junctions in the region as it offers connectivity to visitors coming from different parts of India. With the city being a major tourist hub, the station handles a large rush of passengers and trains on a daily basis. Several important trains pass through the station at all hours of the day and night. That is why it is quite common for railway passengers traveling through the region to seek online food delivery in train at Aurangabad station.

Cuisine Of Aurangabad

The cuisine of Aurangabad shares great similarities with the Mughlai and Hyderabadi cuisines that are known for their unique taste and aroma. Non vegetation dishes form an integral part of everyday food habits, especially the delicacies of pulao and biryani. Nan Qalia is one of the most popular dishes of Aurangabad and comprises of tandoori bread eaten with mutton cooked in a variety of spices. Tahari, which is similar to biryani is another popular dish cherished by the locals.

Culture Of Aurangabad

The culture of Aurangabad reflects a deep influence of the Hyderabadi culture and traditions. In fact, most of the population residing in the old city follows the Muslim culture of Hyderabad. The prominence of Dakhni- Hydrabadi dialect is a further proof of this influence. The people in the city are known to over various art forms, particularly poetry and literature. The city is known to have produced renowned poets such as Wali Dakhni, Siraj Aurangabadi and Sikandar Ali Wajid to name a few.

Travelerfood - Get quality food while travelling...

FOOD IN TRAIN TRAVEL INDIA

Email us- contact@travelerfood.com